

Social Jottings

Miss Jessie Averett of Washington is visiting her aunt, Mrs. C. S. Wilkinson, for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lunt returned from Minersville yesterday, where Mrs. Lunt has been visiting with her parents for the past week. Mr. Lunt has been attending to business interests in Beaver county.

Quite a number of the younger set of Parowan spent part of the day and evening in Cedar City last Wednesday, returning home after the dance. A number of the prominent citizens of that place were also noticed among the visitors at the soldiers' celebration.

The Junior class of the B. A. C. will hold its annual "Prom," tomorrow, including a big dance and luncheon in the evening. Individual programs will be used at the dance, and the affair promises to be something quite out of the ordinary. The Juniors have our congratulations upon the enterprise, class loyalty and patriotism to the school they are exhibiting. Their class colors are orange and white, and these predominate in all their printed materials and decorations.

Yesterday, May 22, Miss Blanche Lunt of this city and Mr. Henry P. Dotson of Minersville were married in the St. George Temple. Miss Lunt is the youngest daughter of R. W. Lunt and is well liked and respected by her many friends and acquaintances in this city. She is winsome and lovable and will make an ideal helpmeet. The groom is well known in Beaver county, is of a good family and has the respect of a host of friends in his home town, and also of this place. He was with the 145th infantry in France and will make a devoted husband, we have no doubt. The young people have the best wishes of The Record in their new and important venture.

Suggestions to Those Who Contemplate Having Their Photographer Make Picture

There is more in getting a photograph than simply going to a photographer. He must know his business and you must know yours, otherwise the result will be likeness that is neither flattering nor truthful.

If you are short and stout, advises an authority, don't ask the poor artist to make a picture of you full length. He will if you insist, but he knows he is doing a great wrong thereby. Nothing is so graceful and pleasing in a picture of a stout lady as a sitting at half-length, the figure so turned as to hide the stoutness.

Again, if you are slim and angular, do not for an instant forget that a full-length figure will make you appear more slim and angular. Then the pretty bust picture is your only hope, and you should insist on having none other.

If a gentleman has a very long neck—no matter how nicely he looks in a high collar—his picture, if taken in such a high affair, would look grotesque. A short neck and high collar, and long neck and a low turned-down collar, by all means. No loud stripes, no great checks, no striking figures should be worn in a photograph.

One thing bear in mind when you visit the studio—bring along your home expression. Don't spend two days before you come to the studio practicing poses and different expressions before your mirror, and, lastly, give the photographer the benefit of exercising his artistic and professional ability.

People Adapt Taste to Foods Nature Provides in the Most Abundance

Men usually adapt their taste to those foods which nature provides in the most abundance and most easily procured, according to a survey made of the American continent. In the northern part of Canada the Eskimos and Canadian Indians place their chief dependence for food and clothing upon the caribou, or American reindeer, but are changing to the seal, where the caribou migrate southward. In the early days the Indians of the plains relied upon the bison. Along the Columbia river, noted for its salmon, fish was the prevailing food of the Indians in California. On the plains of Argentina in South America the guanaco took the place of the caribou of the north in the economic life of the natives. In the Atlantic coast region from Argentina to Hudson bay the Indians cultivated maize, manioc and other crops. History proves that the growing of these food plants originated in America, as they were well known to the Indians before Europeans crossed the sea.

HAVE A SMILE

Awful Prospect.

"I heard of a man who is going to have a rabbit's eye grafted in his face."

"Great Scott! Suppose he takes to nibbling at all the people he meets with cabbage heads."

At His Best.

Yeast—But he's too old to work now, isn't he?

Crimsonbeak—Indeed, not. Why, he's doing his best work now.

"Really?"

"Truly. He just worked me for $5."

The Elusive Desire.

"There is really only one thing the selfish person wants."

"And what's that?"

"Just what he hasn't got."

Rara Avis.

He—I can't praise that play; it is contrary to nature.

She—How so?

He—One of the prominent characters is a contented wife.

Own Yer Own, Anyhow.

"Well, after all," murmured the chronic quoter, "there is no place like home."

"Yep," answered the facetious feller, "that's the reason the clubs and the motion-picture theaters do such a rushing business."

Getting Acquainted.

"Moved, eh?"

"Yes."

"Getting acquainted with the neighbors on the block?"

"Rapidly. Tommy has fought with all the children on one side of the street and is making headway on the other."

Useful Teazel.

Few people probably have heard of teazels, which are grown for the purpose of cloth dressing. The wild teazel is found in English hedges and copses, and bears a purple flower in July. The function of the teazel is to raise the nap of the cloth, although to some extent it has been superseded by the use of wire brushes.

ELIMINATE "FIND THE THIMBLE" GAME WHEN ABOUT TO SEW BY USING SCREEN

Frame of Screen Before Covering—Finished Product Fitted With Sewing Necessaries.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When the average woman starts to sew she usually finds she has left her thimble in the kitchen, that the children took the shears to cut out paper dolls, or that if she wants white thread, black is the only color she can locate. By the time the necessary supplies are collected her zest for the task has departed.

Perhaps she does own a sewing basket, but here everything is in a jumble. Spools of thread in a basket have a maddening habit of unwinding and tangling together, while to thrust the hand incautiously into a sewing basket is to invite a stab from a stray needle. On a sewing screen everything has a place and it is easy to keep everything in its place. Any person apt with tools can make such a screen by following these directions from the United States department of agriculture.

The sewing screen illustrated consists of two panels 28 inches high and 13½ inches wide, made of 1-inch by 2-inch plank. These may be folded together and each panel is covered with burlap. The pockets are fastened to the bottom of each panel on the inside, and hooks are placed on the bottom of the crosspiece to hold the necessary equipment. Pegs or nails are driven into the top of one of the crosspieces. The drop shelf makes a good worktable, and the groove in the top of the crosspiece will hold buttons. This folding sewing screen is light in weight, requires little space, and can be easily carried to the porch or lawn for sewing work.

Materials for Building Screens.

The following material is required for a screen:

- 10 feet of lumber 1½ by 1½ inches.
- 6 1½-inch (butt) hinges with screws to be used in joining the panels and fastening the drop shelf to the crosspieces.
- 1 handle with screws for the top of screen.
- 1 hook and eye to fasten the panels when they are folded and closed.
- 2 yards of burlap, denim, or canvas, 18 inches wide.
- 1 dozen brass cup hooks.
- 1 yard crotone for pockets.
- 1 yard ½-inch elastic for top of pockets.
- 4 dozen upholstery tacks for tacking on burlap.
- Sandpaper and stain.

Care should be taken to choose good colors in materials for pockets and outside covering. The colors in the cloth should harmonize with the color of the stain used for the wood.

Good dyes and wood stains often can be made from nut shells, roots, berries and bark of trees. The cloth, not being the same texture, will take the dye in a little different shade of the same color than the woodwork if the identical barks or shells are used for making the stain for the frame.

How to Make Wood Stain.

To make a good brown stain for the frame, cover three pints of bruised green walnut hulls with three pints of water and allow to stand for twelve hours. Strain through a double cheese-cloth and add one ounce of permanganate of potash. This stain may be made in larger quantities and used for floor stain. It gives a rich brown floor finish. If a semi-glossy appearance is desired, one quart of paraffin oil can be added. This is on the market at a reasonable price.

The darker shades of color will vary according to the amount of dyestuff used and the length of time the material is soaked or heated in it.

Colors that harmonize are: Gray, with purple, red, blue, brown or yellow; yellow, with black, purple, blue or green; red, with black, blue, gray or green; lavender, with green or white; old rose, with all blues; brown, with blue, mauve or gray; heliotrope, with cream; green, with brown.

Supply Suggestions.

The following supplies are convenient to have at hand in the screen before beginning to sew:

Needles of good make and assorted sizes. Sizes 7, 8, 9 and 10 are most used.

Thread, also of good make and assorted sizes. A spool each of Nos. 50, 70 and 100, and basting thread should be on hand.

A plain, substantial thimble. Celluloid or aluminum makes a good, inexpensive thimble; a brass one is not desirable, because it may stain your thimble finger if it gets moist with perspiration, and may poison you if there is a sore place on your finger. A pair of sharp shears, with blades about five inches long, for cutting cloth.

A pair of small, sharp scissors with good points, for cutting threads, removing basting, etc.

An abundance of medium-sized, sharp-pointed pins. Fine pins are easier to use than coarse ones.

A small pincushion, a tape measure, a few pieces of cardboard to use as gauges, a pencil and an emery bag for polishing needles and smoothing them when they become sticky.

MAKE OVER CLOTHES TO SAVE MATERIAL

Suggestion Is Made by Home Demonstration Agent.

Undoubted Economy in Making Over Old Material if Cost of New Is Saved—Things That Can Be Made From Old Garments.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is economy to make over garments when the material is good and appropriate in texture, color, and pattern for the purpose intended, suggests a home demonstration agent of the United States department of agriculture. If the cost of new material is saved and the work of remodeling is not greater than the cost saved in material, there is undoubted economy in utilizing the old material. It is a question whether it is ever economy to buy new material in remodeling. There are many examples of successful remodeling, however, in which new material was used.

The following list may offer suggestions to those who are thrifty remodeling their old material:

Underwear May Be Successfully Recut. Adult's garment.....Recut for child; seams overcast or flat felled.

Adult's combination.....Child's sleeper or combination.

Night gown.....Child's gown, child's petticoat, child's princess petticoat, drawers, chemise.

White skirt.....Child's skirt, deep embroidered ruffle, child's dress or skirt.

Drawers.....Cut down.

Chemise.....Child's drawers.

Man's shirt.....Blouse for boy, apron with a bib, shirt waist for girl, morning waist for sport skirt (short sleeves and collarless).

Made From Old Clothes. Woman's long coat.....Short coat, child's coat, skirt or one piece dress.

Woman's suit.....Misses' suit, one piece dress, dress for girl, or suit for boy.

Man's suit.....Boy's suit.

Man's trousers.....Boy's trousers.

Man's long coat.....Skirt with yoke, child's suit.

Woman's dress.....Remodeled by combining with other materials. Juniper dress, with white gumpie, girl's dress.

White or silk waist.....Slip to wear under voile or crepe waist.

Wool skirt.....Ripped, washed and recut, coat for child; bloomers.

Wash skirt.....Ripped and recut in prevailing style, contrasting material used to lengthen or widen, for pockets, belt, etc. Middy waist, rompers, petticoat or aprons.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Few people know how really delicious mussels are.

The egg status can easily be removed from the silver spoons with salt and water.

Keep flour in a dry place and away from strong-smelling foods to avoid its spoiling.

To wash picture glasses use a pad made of newspapers dipped into warm, soapy water, then rub with a soft cloth dipped in methylated spirits.

Silver will require no special cleansing if it is regularly washed in hot, soapy water and thoroughly dried. Add a few drops of ammonia to the soapy water.

If the pantry becomes infested with ants, dip a sponge in sweetened water and place it where the ants gather. They will soon appear on the sponge "trap," which can then be plunged into hot water.
